He came to our city in 1938 and until the time of his death practiced his profession in Fort Wayne. His efforts were directed primarily to civil matters.

In practice Cloy was a faithful member of the Democratic Party and on several occasions served with credit to his profession as an interim appointee in the office of the Justice of the Peace of Wayne Township, Allen County, Indiana.

He possessed an amiable disposition and was loyal to his family, his friends and his clientele.

He was a member of various bodies of the Masonic Order, the United Commercial Travelers, Allen County Indiana Bar Association, Indiana State Bar Association and the Grace Lutheran Church of Fort Wayne.

He is survived by his wife, Lydia Rodenbeck Gibbs; a son, Dr. LeGrand Gibbs, of Mansfield, Ohio, and four (4) grandchildren.
